SCHOOL OF HOPE

by Mary Beth Maslowski

1 What would you be doing if you weren't going to school? Illness forced 18-year-old Rachel Rosenfeld to stay home from school for almost a whole year. But that didn't stop her from helping to build a school – in faraway Cambodia, in south-eastern Asia!

2 Rachel, from Harrison in the state of New York, had a stomach disorder that was causing her a lot of pain. When possible, Rachel studied at home with a private tutor and did a lot of reading. One day, Rachel read an article about children in Cambodia who can't go to school. The article also reported that some parents in Cambodia are so poor they have to sell their daughters into prostitution. That's when Rachel decided to build a school.

Cambodia

- was called Kampuchea until 1989.
- has a picture of the famous Angkor Wat temple on its flag.
- names Khmer as its main language.
- has three main seasons: rainy (with monsoons), dry (and cold) and another dry (and hot).
- From 1975 until 1979, under the Khmer Rouge dictator, Pol Pot, people were forced out of the cities to work on farms. Around 1.7 million Cambodians died or were killed during that time.

3 Rachel contacted an organization called American Assistance for Cambodia, where she found out what she could do to help. Rachel had to find a way to create something from nothing – on the other side of the world! "I needed to raise $13,000 just for the buildings," she says. "In truth, I was pretty confused about how I would raise enough money to build and maintain an entire school."

4 Rachel started by sending out hundreds of mailings, hoping people could help. She let people buy signs with their names on them for things inside the school, like desks and chairs. She even made T-shirts and sold them for $20 each.

5 Rachel also had to find time to do all the work. "I was going to doctors and hospitals quite frequently and trying to keep up my studies." But eventually Rachel managed to raise about $52,000. The World

Bank and the Asian Development Bank contributed $10,000 and $13,000 respectively.

6 When the school was ready, Rachel and her family flew to Cambodia. But getting to the school wasn't easy. The R.S. Rosenfeld School is in a small village, close to the famous Angkor Wat, a huge 12th century Buddhist temple. The village has neither electricity nor running water. Chickens, cows and other animals roam free here. "We had to stop because two oxen were fighting in the middle of the road," says Rachel.

7 The school is equipped with five computers and Internet access for 300 primary-school pupils. Rachel says she was surprised by how well behaved the kids were.

8 Back home, Rachel's work is not finished. She stays in touch with the school. Every year, additional funds are required, for example for the computer teacher and the generator.

9 For anyone interested in fund-raising, Rachel has some advice: "Don't give up when times get hard," she says. "It's important to be passionate, creative and definitely stay organized. It'll all pay off."

3 FIND THE INFORMATION

A. Rachel is ill. Complete this doctor's form for her.

Dr. J. Domsky New York		CERTIFICATE OF HEALTH
First name:	Rachel	Surname:	_____
Age:	_____	Address:	_____, New York
Health problem:	Rachel has a serious _____ disorder

B. What order did these events take place? Number them 1–6.

Rachel....

4 TEEN TALK

Read this sentence from paragraph 3: "In truth, I was pretty confused about how I would raise enough money...."

Pretty means quite.

Can you think of something you think is:

a. pretty interesting? _____

b. pretty boring? _____

5 WRITE A DIARY

Continue Rachel's diary. Find the missing information from the text.

6 WEBQUEST: CHOOSE THE WINNER OF A COMPETITION!

Every year 'World Challenge' holds a competition for the best aid project. Alone or in small groups, read some examples from the following website and choose an interesting aid project: www.theworldchallenge.co.uk

Make a poster about it. Read your classmates' posters and have a class vote on the best project. Which project should win the first prize? Second prize? Why?

7 DESIGN YOUR OWN SCHOOL!

A. Imagine you are designing a primary school for children in a poor country. There is no electricity or running water. Some children are hungry and ill. How important for your school are the items in the list below? Discuss with a classmate.

The school needs...	Costs	Very important	Quite important	Not important
Desks, chairs and furniture	$5,000
Notebooks and pens	$1,000
Five computers	$5,000
A generator	$4,000
A library with books	$2,500
A health clinic	$4,500
A football field	$500
A playground	$500
A well (for water)	$2,000
One free meal every day	$18,000
TOTAL	$

B. Discuss these questions.

1. Add up your costs. What's the total? How can you make some things cheaper?
2. What else would you like to buy for your school?
3. Most children in your school will eventually work in factories, on rice farms, in small businesses or as tour guides. What school subjects should you offer?
4. What kind of teachers do you want? What personal qualities should they have?
5. What's the name of your school?

C. How can you raise all the money to build your school? You need $13,000 for the buildings and the additional money you listed above. Think of two more ideas.

We can....

- a. write to a big bank to ask for money
- b. email people to ask for money
- c. make things and sell them
- d. _____
- e. _____

Share your ideas with another group!
